Home-Start Camden (HSC) offers free, confidential support, friendship and practical help to parents of children under five in the London Borough of Camden who are going through a difficult time. Home-Start believes that by offering help in the family home at an early stage we can prevent things getting worse and make a greater impact on families under pressure. For 20 years, families have been telling us that HSC volunteers have helped increase parenting skills and confidence, reduce isolation and help families make better use of local services to make family life more enjoyable.
